Freedom of Information Act Request

Under the Freedom of Information Act, I would like to request the following information:

1. What are the biggest challenges your organisation currently faces in surveying and geospatial activity?

Under Section 1(1) of the Freedom of Information Act 2000, public authorities are required to provide access to recorded information. However, your request seeks opinions and subjective assessments, rather than specific documented records. The Act does not require public authorities to create new information, provide opinions, or generate subjective responses in order to answer a request.

2. Are you confident in your full knowledge of the condition and knowledge of your impact on our local environment?

Under Section 1(1) of the Freedom of Information Act 2000, public authorities are required to provide access to recorded information. However, your request seeks opinions and subjective assessments, rather than specific documented records. The Act does not require public authorities to create new information, provide opinions, or generate subjective responses in order to answer a request.

3. What are your organisation's key strategic objectives for the next 12-24 months, and how does surveying and geospatial fit into these?

Our NHS Trust's strategic objectives for the next 12-24 months are outlined in our Annual Report, which sets out our priorities in areas such as patient care, sustainability, digital transformation, and estate management.

Regarding surveying and geospatial activity, this may relate to estate planning, infrastructure improvements, environmental sustainability, or compliance with regulatory requirements. If relevant recorded information exists—such as policies, reports, or strategy documents—these can be provided where applicable.

To ensure we provide you with the most relevant information, we recommend referring to our published strategic documents, which may be available on our website https://www.dbth.nhs.uk/about-us/how-we-are-run/annual-report/

. If you require specific recorded information that is not publicly available, please clarify your request.

4. Please detail any planned development of sites or assets

After careful consideration, we are unable to provide this information under the following exemptions of the Freedom of Information Act 2000:

Section 43(2) – Prejudice to Commercial Interests

Disclosure of planned site or asset developments may prejudice the Trust's commercial interests by revealing sensitive information related to ongoing negotiations, procurement, or contractual discussions. Releasing such details could negatively impact our ability to secure competitive agreements, potentially increasing costs to the NHS and affecting financial planning.

Section 36(2)(b)(i) & (ii) – Prejudice to the Effective Conduct of Public Affairs

Planned developments often involve internal deliberations, risk assessments, and strategic decision-making. Disclosure could inhibit the free and frank provision of advice and free exchange of views, impacting the Trust's ability to make well-informed decisions in the public interest.

Public Interest Test

Both exemptions are qualified exemptions, requiring a public interest test. While we recognise the public interest in transparency around NHS estate management, we must balance this against the need to protect sensitive commercial and strategic discussions. Premature disclosure could jeopardise negotiations, drive up costs, and limit the Trust's ability to operate effectively.

On this basis, we conclude that withholding this information is in the public interest at this time. However, where appropriate, details of approved and publicly announced developments may be available via our website: https://www.dbth.nhs.uk/dbth-operational-plan-2024-25/

No plan,

9. How do you engage with potential new suppliers—through open tenders, direct engagement, or supplier days?

This would be procured via standard procurement procedures.

Doncaster and Bassetlaw Teaching Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust (DBTH) engages with new suppliers through its Procurement Department, which is responsible for ensuring value for money while maintaining quality across the Trust. The department oversees the procurement process, including the negotiation of supply contracts and frameworks under the NHS Standard Terms and Conditions of Contract. These contracts require suppliers to have appropriate anti-slavery and human trafficking policies in place.

For suppliers interested in working with DBTH, it is advisable to contact the Head of Procurement, Richard Somerset, via email at r.somerset@nhs.net. Engaging with the Procurement Department will provide guidance on the Trust's procurement processes and requirements, ensuring that potential suppliers understand the standards and expectations for collaboration.

Additionally, suppliers are encouraged to familiarize themselves with the Trust's policies and procedures related to supplies and purchasing, which are available on the DBTH website. This includes understanding the procurement toolkit and the supplier and manufacturer representative policy, which outline the necessary steps and considerations for establishing a successful partnership with the Trust.
